

CIS 422 Group Member Evaluations 1

Due Friday, October 27, 2000

Group Member Evaluations 1

Please fill out one evaluation for each member of your team, including yourself. Separate the forms on the next page before turning them in. Please evaluate your teammates and yourself on these attributes:

- Dependable. A dependable team member makes commitments to perform some part of the work, and can be counted on to finish that work competently and on time.
- Constructive. A constructive team member puts the interest of the group before personal ambition and ego. A constructive team member participates in discussions in a way that helps lead toward a good outcome, rather than trying to show off or gain personal advantage. A constructive team member helps the team achieve a good result, rather than trying to obtain a result that makes the individual look good.
- Engaged. An engaged team member takes an active part in the work of the group, including discussions and individual work.
- Productive. A productive member finishes a lot of work, and contributes their share to the work of the group.
- Asset. Each member should contribute some particular skill or knowledge to the group. A member is an asset to the group if they contribute something of value.